Jealousy

First comes luxury, that's all they see

Jealousy

How could I believe you

Jealousy

You can't find the key without honesty

They want my money, they don't care about me

I trusted them, I helped them

They disappointed me

It's hard to accept it

I feel this jealousy

How could you deceive me

Your life becomes a lie

Stop spreading all the rumours

I'm feeling abused

Hard to find out who's an honest friend

Trust in someone who you understand

I am tired of this jealousy

I walk this way on heaven's road

Accept my destiny

Another rumour's going round and round

What a foolish answer I have found

You're a liar without any shame

Everywhere they mess around,

They're playing wicked games

No more jealousy, insanity, eternally in memory

All for one, one for all, could be reality

I see, they want my money, they don't care about me

Free is what I wanna be

Always think twice about the things you say or do

Cause one day the lie you believe, will become true

Stop spreading all the rumours, I told you a long time ago

But now - you're a liar, you're a liar

Life is tough, so you gotta get tougher

Rough enough not like a toy, of joy and pain

You blamed my name, it's a shame, life ain't no game

Like truth or dare, I care, I swear

I was there, anytime, anyplace, anywhere,

I doubt how to heal an open wound, don't turn around

Did you forget I was your friend, trust in someone and I found

Out - you're a liar, you're a liar
