

Truth About It Is

Dogwood

It's not easy to be me,
With all my philosophies and my flippant state of mind.
I'd much rather take a nap than jump aloof and do all that,
To worry what the crowd thinks of me tonight.

I'm not asking you to love me.
I'm just letting out the truth.
No holds barred about what I feel,
Nothing wrong with what I say.
I'm not telling you to hate me,
I just want you to relate.
Don't forget about the message or the reason we're on stage.

We once opted for a route wich included "selling out."
I won't divulge that here now, so I digress.

I'm not asking you to love me.
I'm just letting out the truth.
No holds barred about what I feel,
Nothing wrong with what I say.
I'm not telling you to hate me,
I just want you to relate.
Don't forget about the message or the reason we're on stage.

The truth about it is that we only do it for the Lord.
