

The Lord And I Together

Don Francisco

When I wake up in the morning, put my feet on the floor
I set my heart in the right direction
Let the world be driven by it's worries and fears
My faith is in the resurrection
Through the power of the spirit who lives in me
Ya know the devil can't hold a candle
There ain't nothing gonna happen today
The Lord and I together can't handle

You know I love to start the morning on the truth in his word
Because his promises beat anything that I've ever heard
When I walk in his commandments and his promises too
I know his blessings gonna follow me whatever I do

When I wake up in the morning, put my feet on the floor
I set my heart in the right direction
Let the world be driven by it's worries and fears
My faith is in the resurrection
Through the power of the spirit who lives in me
Ya know the devil can't hold a candle
There ain't nothing gonna happen today
The Lord and I together can't handle

But you know sometimes later in the heat of the day
I get a little anxious start losin' my way
That's' when he reminds me down deep in my soul
He's still the King and he's still in control

And then later in the evenin' at the settin of the sun
I lift my heart and thank him for the things that he's done
I open my bible and just listen to him
He takes my empty cup and fills it up to the brim

So when I wake up in the morning, put my feet on the floor
I set my heart in the right direction
Let the world be driven by it's worries and fears
My faith is in the resurrection
Through the power of the spirit who lives in me
Ya know the devil can't hold a candle
There ain't nothing gonna happen today
The Lord and I together can't handle
