

Loving You's Like Coming Home

Don Williams

I've been rained on, I've been wind blown
Took a wrong road every now and then
I've been passed up, once or twice stuck
And I thought love was just around the bend
But lately, my hope was wearing thin

It's a lonesome and endless highway
I've been searching for so long
And after all the miles I've traveled
Loving you's like coming home

I've been left flat, I've been laughed at Wound up right back where I started from
Been the wrong way down a one way
And I thought someday my day would come
But lately, I'd almost given up

It's a lonesome and endless highway
I've been searching for so long
And after all the miles I've traveled
Loving you's like coming home

Well, I've been flagged down, I've been turned round
And all that I found was a dead end street
I've been stranded, marked and branded
Treated underhanded by everyone I meet
But lately, my dream is getting weak

It's a lonesome and endless highway
I've been searching for so long
And after all the miles I've traveled
Loving you's like coming home

It's a lonesome and endless highway
I've been searching for so long
And after all the miles I've traveled
Loving you's like coming home
