

Your Heart

Donavon Frankenreiter

And some days I'm only half my size
And some days I'm ten feet kneelin'
And some days I'm the owner of this city
And some days I get caught steelin'
And then I hear the sirens blow
And the church bells they let me know that it's just
Your heart, your heart, your heart

And sometimes I feel six feet under
Sometimes I wanna scream loud as thunder
Sometimes I know the world feels like it's shaking
I'd rather be know for giving but for now I'm taking
Static in my mind
Just to fight trough the distance and the time baby
Your heart, your heart, your heart

Somewhere out there is a lost and found
Somewhere out there is a lasting love
Somewhere out there playing is the saddest tune
Somewhere out there I can hear the beating of
Your heart, your heart, your heart
It's just your heart beating
Your heart, your heart, your heart
