Pillow Talk

This song did not chart Title song from the 1959 film starring Day and Rock Hudson Pillow talk, pillow talk Another night of hearin' myself talk, talk, talk, talk Wonder how it would be to have someone to pillow talk with me I wonder how I wonder who Pillow talk, pillow talk Another night of bein' alone with pillow talk When it's all said and done, two heads together can be better than one That's what they say They always say All I do is talk to my pillow Talk to my pillow, talk to my pillow All I do is talk to my pillow Talk about the boy I'm gonna marry someday Somehow, some way, sometime Pillow talk, pillow talk Another night of gettin' my fill of pillow talk You and I both agree there must be a boy, must be a pillow Must be a pillow-talkin' boy for me I hope I'm right I'd better be right Oh, there must be a pillow-talkin' boy for me (We hope she's right, she'd better be right, there must be a boy) There must be a boy There must be a boy There must be a boy There MUST be a boy!! There MUST!!

Doris Day