Who am I supposed to be?
I can't be sure that the next one will see me

And if the sky starts falling on the street outside The only thing that satisfies If the sky starts falling on the heads outside The only thing that keeps me alive

If you see her again, be sure to say hello
Be sure to send my love
Did she seem like before
Could you seem above it all
Be sure to send my love

Wake up, waking up to see It's a sign
That what will be will be

And if the sky starts falling on the street outside The only thing that satisfies If the sky starts falling on the heads outside The only thing that keeps me alive

I swear I heard her call, call my name I swear I heard her call, can I move on

If you see her again, be sure to say hello Be sure to send my love Did she seem like before Can't you see above it all Be sure to send my love

I swear I heard her call, call my name I swear I heard her call, can I move on

Did she call herself a friend?

Don't call on me again, don't call on me again

Did she seem like before

Did she seem above it all

Be sure to send my love