The one

Down By Law

If I could be the one Then you know I'd be the one Knock down walls built up around me Building blocks only I can see Close my eyes The dream begins It's black and white Then you wake up again My mind is blank for you Draw on it what you will Try the truth, you try my patience I draw on strength you'll never know How could you draw me? I close my eyes The dream begins It's black and white Then you wake up again
