

Ballad Of Lucy Jordan

Dr. Hook

The mornin' sun touched lightly on the eyes of Lucy Jordan
In her white suburban bedroom, in a white suburban town
As she lay there 'neath the covers, dreaming of a thousand love rs
'Til the world turned to orange and the room went spinnin' roun d

At the age of 37, she realized she'd never ride through Paris
In a sports car, with the warm wind in her hair
And she let the phone keep ringin' as she sat there softly sing in'
Pretty nursery rhymes she'd memorized in her daddy's easy chair

Her husband, he was off to work, and the kids were off to schoo l
And there were oh so many ways for her to spend her day
She could clean the house for hours, or rearrange the flowers
Or run naked down the shady street screaming all the way

At the age of 37, she realized she'd never ride through Paris
In a sports car, with the warm wind in her hair
And she let that phone keep ringin' as she sat there softly sin gin'
Pretty nursery rhymes she'd memorized in her daddy's easy chair

The evening sun touched gently on the eyes of Lucy Jordan
On the rooftop where she'd climbed when all the laughter grew t oo loud
And she bowed and curtsy to the man, who reached and offered he r his hand
And led her down to the long white car that waited past the cro wd

At the age of 37, she knew she'd found forever as they rode alo ng through Paris
With the warm wind in her hair Oooooohhh yes with the wind in her hair oooooohhhh
