Dragonland

I never thought that i would see the truth behind the lie so now i've opened my eyes now i must find the reason find the reality i leave my sanity behind madness took my mind some day you'll see and you will believe me i'm the one who will set you free so open your mind and rid this world of insanity from the vanity i stare out into nothing, thinking what we have done just don't understand why all this came to be what have we done to be to be rulers of all how it tears my mind apart some day you'll see and you will believe me i'm the one who will set you free so open your mind and rid this world of insanity from the vanity The bruises on my wrist are bleeding more and more i'm pulling harder trying to break free suddenly i realize i can't move thinking of the good times as i am falling asleep