Craving

Dreadful Shadows

I walked along a boundless passage It collapsed above my head A cyclone sweeps me away And avalanches plunge

A craving for delight - no remembrance We're neither lost nor found

White walls hold me in chains The axis got out of place A child is dancing to the sound Of detonating bombs

A craving for delight - no remembrance We're neither lost nor found

A raging torrent pulls me down And I don't attempt to hold my breath The glass is shattering on the ground It cuts into my skin, but no blood is pouring

A craving for delight - no remembrance We're neither lost nor found

I see the children again It smiles It burns