Now that I've come to see That it was you, not me All these lies believed Although it never occurred to me that you'd come undone You thought I'd lost and you'd won Your bridges burned, you're shunned And now it's time to pay. . . Only One thing left to say And be it as it may Can't WAIT for judgement day My life was given back to me How does it feel? You look at me, you kneel! I don't need anyone To tell me it's real. Fuck you don't tell me I can see he's a better man than me What you want. What you need. It's not the same, I tried. I never questioned why. I always felt that I Had done the best I could for you. But now without me Albeit painfully I guess that you can't seem To get this clearly Fuck you don't tell me I can see he's a better man than me. What you want. What you need. Fuck you don't tell me.