

See the man, the bitter one
Finding nothing till he's too far gone
Freezing wind, don't you think it's cold?
Simian eyes, find the weaker load

Oh, God, don't you see that we're miserable?
The city's breaking us apart

It's in the man, the angry one
I wonder what he has become
I see the young girl,
Got beaten down for fun
Didn't ask to be the chosen one

Oh, God, don't you see that we're miserable?
The city's breaking us apart
Oh my God, don't you think that it's criminal?
You let her stand there without a heart
You let her stand there without a heart

I can't see how we are gonna get through it
You set us here we're full of fear
It's so unclear what you're going to do

See the police, they're shaken up with fear
Wild swings to the nearest one
He tried to save her he couldn't run
A wasted life with no reason

Oh, God, don't you see that we're miserable?
The city's breaking us apart
Oh my God, don't you think that it's criminal?
You let her stand there without a heart

Oh, God, don't you see that we're miserable?
The city's breaking us apart
Oh my God, don't you think that it's criminal?
You let her stand there without a heart
You made a world with a broken part
I can't see how we are gonna get through it

You set us here we're full of fear
It's so unclear what you're going to do
