Now And Forever

Dystopia

Take a long look at the past to unlock a greater future Sift through the wreckage of failures In the hope to make things better Like more efficient ways to kill in the name of human progress How to and crush the will So that no one dares to question.

So what of the past and this "so called" better future? If past and future don't exist then where does that leave us? Lost in a quagmire of lies built upon the lies of before Echoing endless through time These legends of false perception

Identities lie... based on ego and habit Beliefs kill. why are these institutions sacred? So what of the past and this "so called" better future? If past and future don't exist where the fuck does that leave u s? To bathe in the excrement of old and back in the "glory" of wha t is to be

I hang my head in sorrow because the now is too disgusting to s ee The past does not exist. The future is a myth Only the now remains The future is a myth Only the now remains

Genocide was someone's now A tool to make things better Once a madman's torture. a vision that has ended Atrocities are mimicked, carried forth to this day Only names and faces have been changed
