

Wake Up

Earshot

Fall to my knees just to be close to God and I fall to the floor from your love I am weakened by your tenderness and touched by your innocence I search just to find that you're enough I'm here, call on me
everything, you and me
every moment I think of you is...(every thought that shatters)

All this time just to break up I'm bored and so alone
wake up
I'm bored and so alone
wake up

I will be your protector guided by the light from heaven I will stand and never be undone like a flame with a million hours keeping warm this enchantment all that goes inside this grace is yours
I'm here, call on me
everything, you and me
every moment I think of you is...(every thought that shatters)

Love me, love me before you tell me all the reasons why you wouldn't have me everything's so fucked up in my head I don't know for sure that's what she said tell me, tell me please won't you let me tell you how inside I feel so empty nothing left just thoughts of better times letting heal this broken heart and mind I can't find your will to be saved waking all this fear inside me
I can't find your will to be saved
wake up find yourself inside me
