

From birth an existence of agony begins that ends with execution.

Intentionally infected with diseases to then try to find cures for humans. Fractured skulls, broken bones, scalded flesh and blinded eyes. For medical research and cosmetic testing animals suffer and die.

Walls conceal the tortured victims of vivisection.

Nothing of value can be gained for science or medicine when the price is a helpless animal's life.

An animal becomes a subject - their pain a mere reaction.

Harmless testing alternatives ignored - they refuse to end their profit system. The suffering benefits mankind - the excuse for demented scientists whose brutalization of the innocent denegrates humanity's existence.

When education and peaceful protest can't bring their liberation the strategy

for their rescue changes into militant intervention.

Every action has an impact.

Every life saved is a victory.

The truth known by the caring few who wage guerilla warfare to end this atrocity.

Severed locks, doors wrenched from hinges,

the animals deliverance from torment and captivity.

Vivisectionists dragged into the street and shot as flames engulf the laboratory.

Justice's hammer falls again and again until it ends when the price is a helpless animal's life.
