You Carry Me

Eden's Bridge

When my heart burns low And my dark eyes teem When my hopes are passing And swept downstream When the empty days Melt to endless nights When I stumble and falter You carry me

May your grace and your love Always be here with me May your strength bear my weight Over land and sea May I know for all time That you walk by my side When I stumble and falter You carry me

When I lose my direction And cannot find the way When the night overcomes me And shadows haunt my day May I know when I call You are only a moment away

When the seasons are high And the breeze takes me on When my troubles are few And the challenges none When my dry eyes are clear May I always know When I stumble and falter You carry me