

Death Is Not The End

Edenbridge

Going round in circles another dreary day any crumb of hope could save an animal at bay the prime of life has gone by caught in no man's land no rosy dawn can light my day neither family, nor friend and in a lucid moment it was all so very clear the time is right to overcome the fear

taking a stroll down on memory lane one moment, one lifetime, we'll meet again cause i still believe, death is not the end (it's) all mortal clay, but my soul transcends the gloomy thoughts have come back i couldn't find my way what could have been, could i have seen why led it astray ?

One day i was hoping to set the world on fire and looking back now in the end left is the desire

but please enshrine the memory and build a place for me i'll be there always lean on me

(it's) all mortal clay, but my soul transcends

for the life of me, i've gone my merry way not lost beyond recall time will pass and ease your pain and all the good things will remain don't cry, i have come to rest i'm safe back home

(it's) all mortal clay, but my soul transcends

(it's) all mortal clay, but my soul transcends
