

The Land Through Your Eyes

Elane

Lost in lonesome woods
Was exiled to my darkest fear
No dusk, no dawn find their way to me
To lead me out of this

Misdeed was done when I came in
I've never seen such dreadful sin
A well-known shadow covered me
For I was cursed so wrongfully

Now I can see the land through your eyes
Can feel the wind carry me up high
Through the clouds and endless skies
Till I reach my homeland I will fly

Misdeed was done when I came in
I've never seen such dreadful sin
A well-known shadow covered me
For I was cursed so wrongfully

Now I can see the land through your eyes
Can feel the wind carry me up high
Through the clouds and endless skies
Till I reach my homeland I will fly

I raven's coat I shall prevail
From breeze to wind
From storm to gale

Now I can see the land through your eyes
Can feel the wind carry me up high
Through the clouds and endless skies
Till I reach my homeland I will fly
