You're a law unto yourself And we don't suffer dreamers But neither should you walk the earth alone

So with finger rolls and folding chairs And a volley of streamers We can be there for tweaks and repairs Should you come back home

We got open arms for broken hearts Like yours my boy, come home again

Tables are for pounding here
And when we've got you surrounded
The man you are will know the boy you were

And you're not the man who fell to earth You're the man of La Mancha And we've love enough to light the street 'Cause everybody's here

We got open arms for broken hearts Like yours my boy, come home again We got open arms for broken hearts Like yours my boy, come home again

Everyone's here
Everyone's here
The moon is out looking for trouble
And everyone's here

Everyone's here
Everyone's here
The moon wants a scrap or a cuddle
And everyone's here

We got open arms for broken hearts Like yours my boy, come home again We got open arms for broken hearts Like yours my boy, come home again

Everyone's here Everyone's here Everyone's here Come home again

The moon is out looking for trouble The moon wants a scrap or a cuddle The moon is face down in a puddle And everyone's here
