

Thousand Eyes

Electric Light Orchestra

The night has a thousand eyes
and they're all on you
The night has a thousand ears
Listening to your cries
Let it work its magic
Let it work its magic
The night has a thousand eyes

You, you had to slip away
After all that spark
You, said all that you could say
And slipped into the dark
I could not let you go
Alone into the night
I had to let you know

The magic there, in the night air

The night has a thousand eyes
and they're all on you
The night has a thousand ears
Listening to your cries
Let it work its magic
Let it work its magic

You, somewhere out in the dark
Runs a wounded heart
You, stumbling in the night
In the air of after light
You take along the fears
Did you waste these years,
And did they warn you of the night zone all alone

Sometimes it takes a fight
To keep everything on track,
And sometimes it takes a starry night
To bring the magic back
This was the time
And this was the place with starlight on your face
And the moon on the rise,
The night has a thousand eyes
