

I'm here alone all by myself with no-one else I need someone to share these thoughts about myself I don't know who I can trust this picture's starting to rust and as I press upon myself a form of torture I write these words for someone else just like an author I don't know who I can trust

I don't know who I can trust everybody won't you come with me we'll take a ride across the sea when we get there if we don't drown I'll turn your whole world upside down And later on with each illegal breath I take I lose resistance for an instant to my fate How I'll miss you when you're gone I'm a number lower than one I'm on my own I think this stuff is getting stronger I'm wide awake and I can't take it any longer How I'll miss you when you are gone I'm a number lower than one everybody won't you come with me help me find what I can't see I'm sick of crawling along the ground help me turn my world around everybody won't you come with me everybody come with me if I don't find what I've come for you won't see me anymore Sometimes It's hard just to find some piece of mind it feels like I am going crazy almost all of the time and if we can't live this way then what will I do like my father and my mother I'm depending on you

You've got to fight just to keep your piece of mind you've got to hold on tight don't cross that line Sometimes I cry like a baby when I look outside I'm on a losing streak driving through Moss Side Like the river deep or the ocean wide like the river deep or the ocean wide like the river deep or the ocean wide There's a crack in the wall but I just can't hide.
