

A Possibility

Eleni Mandell

I wanted to be possible for true love to exist.
Wanted to be possible that you cannot resist.
A house, a home, no wish to roam, no wish to be set free.
Me and you and you and me, just the possibility.

You told me from the very start you're not that kind of man
You told me that it breaks your heart to see me look so sad.
You told me that it's hard to choose, you fall so easily
But all I ever asked you to was just the possibility.

Why is it impossible to imagine life so full?
Don't you care a little bit, I might fulfilled your every wish.

Why is it impossible to imagine life so full?
Don't you care a little bit, I might fulfilled your every wish.

I wanted to be possible for all good things and more
Dancing, kissing, holding hands, talking all night long.
To find you there and you to care, how happy we could be.
Me and you and you and me, just the possibility.
