

Now We're Strangers

Eleni Mandell

I always knew some day I'll hardly recognize your face
You barely recognize my name
Now we're strangers!
Uh, uh, uh,
And just like that you'd see
It wasn't meant to be
Not even close to me
Now we're strangers!
Uh, uh, uh
Uh, uh, uh
Cause if I think hard we might remember
All the ways we lovely...
But after just a bit of liquor
The memory lose, the fog grows thicker.
It's funny how I have to try
To see you in my mind
Life can be so unkind
Now we're strangers
Uh, uh, uh

There was a time before we met
I tried and tried, one can't forget
The first that you smiled to me
And suddenly we were...
I don't where, I don't know when
We'll call each other friend
But I won't miss you,
Until then now we're strangers!
Uh, uh, uh
