

Underground rivers of love that we can't see I wish they could reach the sunlight to show us the way to live life without hate and set us free hit me right through the heart now and flow in the sea

Cherish the wounds and heal every scar
Take this fear that I feel and pull it out kick it out

This is the beautiful land where I was born
The nature the colors that I love
The place in this world that I belong
This is the beautiful land where I was born
The nature the lining of my soul
The place where I will always return

See the beautiful stars above us like satellites Shine like dust in the sun in their giant time Closing your eyes it's easy to disappear
Dreaming of distant places
And wake right here

Cherish the wounds and heal every scar
Take this fear that I feel and pull it out kick it out

This is the beautiful land where I was born
The nature the colors that I love
The place in this world that I belong
This is the beautiful land where I was born
The nature the lining of my soul
The place where I will always return

I've learned everything here... this is my shield...
This is my home... and if you really want to know me please come over have a look

Cherish the wounds and heal every scar
Take this fear that I feel and pull it out kick it out

This is the beautiful land where we were born
The nature the colors that we love
The place in this world that we belong
This is the beautiful land where we were born
The nature the lining of our soul
The place where we will always return
