

Rain over My Head

Elisa

Pouring rain over my head, no excuses
Skeletons hiding right there in my closet
Simple details never right
Never close to what you needed
Convince me, win me over
Pouring rain over my head, no excuses
Pouring rain over my head
No good place to hide them

My angels are looking down
Their voices mix with sound
They know you're the one
They know you're the one
A secret held inside
No home feels like your eyes
They know you're the one
They know you're the one

Pouring rain over my head, on my defenses
Skeletons laughing at my bad decisions
Mistakes are always lonely: who wants to see them?
But little voices in my head kept on shouting
Pouring rain over my head, little voices
Pouring rain over my head
How they try to save me

My angels are looking down
Their voices mix with sound
They know you're the one
They know you're the one
A secret held inside
No home feels like your eyes
They know you're the one
You know you're the one

And your kisses were heaven-sent
And your touch felt like something else
When you're dancing with me
When you're dancing with me
Something blowing deep in my soul
'cause my baby you just don't know
What you're doing to me
What you're doing to me

Oh, your kisses were heaven-sent
And your touch was like no one else
You're the one, you're the one
Something blowing deep in my soul
But my baby you just don't know
You're the one, you're the one

My angels looking down
Their voices mix with sound
They know you're the one
They know you're the one