

So Much Of Me

Elisa

Yeah, and the chemistry is clear
When the bound'ries that restrain me
Can be overcome so easily
On a night when I was shielded
By a clutch of dreams half-hearted
That I feared to see discarded

Yeah, and the paradox is clear
When I tried to keep them buried
All the secrets of my yearnings
Just to find I'm out there sharing
And the loose-tongued one is me
I betray myself though wary

There's so much of me that you don't see
And so many things there's no discerning
And so much we gotta take on this journey together

Oh, there's a hidden smile revealed
And I'm struggling to release it
From the bound'ries that restrain me
Then our doubts will disappear
In a sea of frozen senses
As we loosen our defences

There's so much of me that you don't see
And so many things there's no discerning
And so much we gotta take on this journey together

There's so many things that we can't see
And so many things we'll be confiding
And so much we've gotta learn as we walk on together

Oh, but the hesitation's clear
As I swing still undecided
It's concealing or revealing
And a momentary fear
But you're breaking through the silence
And the bound'ries that restrain me

There's so much of me that you don't see
And so many things there's no discerning
And so much we gotta take on this journey together

There's so many things that we can't see
And so many things we'll be confiding
And so much we've gotta learn as we walk on together