Who Wears These Shoes?

Elton John

There's a light on in your window There's a shadow on the street Two silhouettes tell me it's over The shadow knows the shadow's me

I won't crawl or cause you trouble Well that's the last thing I'll ever do But before I leave your life completely Tell me who wears these shoes, darling

Lord knows the days just get longer The nights grow cold with you on my mind And I feel like an old jukebox Playing the same song all the time

If these crazy dreams don't kill me It's more than I can take from you Not knowing where or when I'll see you Not knowing darling who wears these shoes

My friends all say don't got to pieces I say that's fine but if I lose I want to know who's in my foot steps I want to know who wears these shoes

My friends all think I must be crazy I see the facts but if it's true I want to know who's in my footsteps I want to know who wears these shoes, darling

Oh and it's a chilling feeling When I can't see him What do I do When I face the two of you
