

Fading Rose

Elusive

in times so uncertain the day's fallen so dark and the joys I cannot remember it's falling apart you gave me the strength to go on but the shadows are growing on the hill the gallows are swinging in the wind, in the wind

I float on a river tonight a river of tears you have cried I'll give you my heart though it's broken for the one last dance
in the sun, in the sun
but I cannot see
the fading rose

now the tree has withered and every mornings cold there's a road ahead of me but I cannot go
the light looks so pale promises few on the hill angels are singing

and dark is the day and I cannot see and all of our hopes has been shattered the river runs wild

the fading rose
