Moon Woman li

Elvis Perkins

It hasn't been this bright
In a century and a third
At this time of night
In the great wide world

The moon is overhead

Her light shines down on me

It's lovely how it hits the deck

Making shadows of the trees

Does anybody have a light? I'm cold as a stone And it's dark in the night And i'm up here all alone

You've got this power over me My shadow hungers for you But we must not ever meet No, we've got to play it cool

Get yourself a life
Give yourself another name
Become somebodies wife
It'll ease up all the shame

Does anybody love you? Does anybody love you?

Well I've got to go get waxed I can't have shadows by noon You just stay put and relax I'll be round again soon

Does anybody have a light? I'm cold as a stone And it's dark in the night And I'm up here all alone

Does anybody love you? Does anybody love you?
