

What Lies Beneath

Elysion

Whenever the rain comes down
It carries memories of a prime long gone
When we used to seize the day
And drain the nights from all the great Unknown

We're running away
From colours to grey
Breakin' out

To the past I call, wish we never let it go
We couldn't see at all, it was heaven in disguise
To the past I turn, when you used to hold my hand
We could not understand
What beneath lies

Inside the diary entries breathe again
The old days come alive
Then fading away before
I even get to wave my dreams goodbye

Tears running away
From eyes betrayed
Dryin' out

To the past I call, wish we never let it go
We couldn't see at all, it was heaven in disguise
To the past I turn, when you used to hold my hand
We could not understand
What beneath lies

To the past I call, wish we never let it go
We couldn't see at all, it was heaven in disguise
To the past I turn, when you used to hold my hand
We could not understand what beneath the future lies
To the past I call, wish we never let it go
We couldn't see at all, it was heaven in disguise
To the past I turn, when you used to hold my hand
We could not understand
What beneath lies
