Decade

Embodyment

In the right moment she feels him teething Burn the pictures of days gone by Trade this moment for passing pleasure End the hour with even scores

In the right moment the candles burning Hide the question in one more thought With submission you find devotion Save my soul with sudden good-byes

Falling

In the right moment the dial tone comforts Find your peace beneath tainted sheets Exchange values for self-indulgence

Cross your heart with fleeting dreams Falling
Judges feasting on shame
Sever passions on end

Children weeping for one Vacant, denied In the right moment the story's ending Try your soul on another page

And time opens your best kept secrets Plead the fifth now before you lie In the right moment you play you In the right moment you slay you

In the right moment you sell you In the right moment I save you A decade late