Happiness Will Get You in the End

Embrace

I'd kill anything that flaps around your head, darling We had so much, I don't know where it went God can strike me down if I'm wrong, I'll repent saying That happiness will get you in the end, darling

Some psychic gave me words, I've come to dread she said That happiness would come to you again, oh yeah Your fall will break, your splashing heart can mend, knowing That happiness will get you in the end

And my mind is like a maze

And I know the way all around that maze

With you next to me

But I can't find my way out with you around, please stay

Those tear stained letters you returned unread saying
That happiness has come to you again, oh yes
And all good things must reach their rotten end, darling
But happiness will get you in the end

Oh, happiness will get you in the end Oh, happiness will get you in the end, darling