

Anne Marie

Emery

You say that you don't need me anymore
Well that's just fine
You headed for the door
And you won't hear me cryin' anymore
My Anne Marie

Anne Marie
You're leaving me
Anne Marie
You're leaving me
And I don't think you're coming back this time
Anne Marie you're leaving me
And I don't think that you can see
That I'm the man for the rest of your life

You know it's not so hard to let you go
Remember the time at Christmas '99
When we had a snowball fight and you won
My Anne Marie

Anne Marie
You're leaving me
Anne Marie
You're leaving me
And I don't think you're coming back this time
Anne Marie
You're leaving me
And I don't think that you can see
That I'm the man for the rest of your life

A dresser drawer filled with sweet love letters
And the bible you gave me
I won't show up on your doorstep
On Sunday morning
When I pray, God hears your name
Even though things aren't the same
And now I realize why my heart is breaking in two
'Cause you're leaving one piece for me
And taking the rest with you
Anne Marie
