This Rope's Getting Tighter

Emma Pollock

I drive through streets, I could walk for weeks Full of life or full of loneliness Whose eyes will I watch from Today?

The day I signed, My horror signed
My glass was overflowing, celebrate
This rope's getting tighter
And someone is pulling me back to the start, Oh

I need something that I know now, Oh Just too far away from home now, Oh Just a sight or sound to trust now, Oh

Keep it simple, Keep me static Just enough to lose the panic Let me see the light again I have to know, Where it goes

Needing from the inside out
This gut rot I could do without
So sinister, a pastime
I have to know, I have to go

So cut the cord, Throw overboard
This history that claims of me
My present, and my future
Both clear to see, Both bound to be

A replica, this life so far I think it's time I raised the bar But this rope's getting tighter And someone is pulling me back to the start, Oh

I need something that I know now, Oh Just too far away from home now, Oh Just a sight or sound to trust now, Oh

Keep it simple, Keep me static Just enough to lose the panic Let me see the light again I have to know, I have to go

Needing from the inside out
This gut rot I could do without
So sinister, a pastime
I have to know, I have to go
