If You Were a Bluebird

Emmylou Harris

If you were a bluebird you'd be a sad one
I'd give you a true word but you've already had one
If you were a bluebird you'd be crying
You'd be flying home

If you were a raindrop you'd shine like a rainbow And if you were a train stop the conductor would sing low If you were a raindrop you'd be falling You'd be calling home

If you were a hotel honey, you'd be a grand one
But, if you hit a slow spell do you think you could stand one?
If you were a hotel well I'd lean on your doorbell
I'd call you my home

If I was a highway I'd stretch alongside you I'd help you pass by ways that had dissatisfied you If I was a highway well I'd be stretching I'd be fetching you home
