

Friends In Progression

Empty Tremor

There're so many people,
Lives we have encountered everyday,
Thousands I have met along my way
And everyone was special.
Every move we choose to make
Traces lines between who leaves and who stays,
So that all the people around you today
Are reflections of you anyway,
So enjoy their stay.

And when life is tough, you always know that friends are there,
And I'm proud to say I know they really care.

Some of you will follow me,
Some of you I'll lose like a drop in the sea,
Some of you have earned a little place here inside of me,
As emblazoned in my memories for eternity.

And when life is tough, you always know that friends are there,
Giving everything they can,
When there's no way out they'll be your freedom.
When you've had enough, friends are the ones who'll comprehend,
And will always understand,
I will shout it loud, you are the ones that I will always call friends.

But soon I must go away, I sadly must say.
I need to build my reality, follow my own belief.
But today fears will fade away, 'cause I know that friends will stay.

Should I stay? Should I go?
Should I take my choices selfishly, Just for me?
Someone stop me please!
Help me see clearly. Can I kill the voice inside of me telling me,
Now's the time to leave but even one day, far away,
I believe my friends will stay!

Follow me changing through time and key,
And we will be We shall be,
And we shall be Friends in Progression.

And when life is tough, you always know that friends are there,
Giving everything they can,
When there's no way out, they'll be your freedom.
When you've had enough, friends are the ones who'll comprehend,
And will always understand,
I would like to dedicate a tune,
To good times and friends that I have found in you.
