I'll soon use my hands To carve paths through this caged world Locked up by them I must hold my courage Whether their kind will ever give Whether in life they'll ever live Flaming eyes burn far above A candle's glow Naked to myself Chained to change One day see the light As I grasp for this My world my joy Purged of its life They will seek their reward Leading them on... They'll bleed they own hearts Steal my world Asserting that I must sanction worse Flaming eyes burn far above A candle's glow Naked to myself Chained to change
