

By Design

Enemy You

You say we're lovers, I say we're fighters
If you want some proof of why don't check out the nightly news
You want one justice, I want admission (of guilt)
Turn our backs on reality, we applaud the token truth
The burden of logic it seems we live to betray Blinding our reason emotion gets in the way
For every act of cogitation there's a thousand of hate Every moment of every day I'm introverted, but so destructive My existence and my lifetime won't match the waste I'll leave behind
And I am caring, ten times more hateful Human in my nature and guilty by design