Deliverance

Entwine

Shedding blood and tears to deliver the pain of broken years, hollow cold despair The time is running out as the beautiful sun is going down, darkened solitude will show the way

No more drops of loss, no fear Deliverance, warm embrace

Confined by misery, as I drift towards my destiny, sanguine emptiness
Anticipate the dawn, it's clear now where the line is drawn, creeping end is near, eternal sleep

No more drops of loss, no fear Deliverance, warm embrace

3. In The Frame Of Wilderness

The sky dressed in red by midsummer sunset, lake so tranquil filled with thy scarlet tears Enchantress my queen of nightfall, thy mesmeric gaze will take command (in the frame of the wilderness)

The dusk descends and sadly entwines the shades, in the pale moonlight, full of whispers

Over the forest (creeping) mist brings desires, silhouettes sank by silvery sea

The passion reigns as the grey haze caresses thee, the splendour of beauty, mysterious and seductive In the frame of wilderness, so serene, the spell which thou cast on me

For thee enchantress all the angels weep Nightshades increased by silver tears