

Identity

Eowyn

So I said it once before when you opened up that door to my mind.

This is who I want to be, Individuality this time.

Face to Face with who I am I begin to understand my life.

Where you are and what you see can determine who you'll be at times.

Every time I look away, every single day I find another piece of me.

It's not, easy, to be who your meant to be.

It's not easy!

Who am I really trying to please?

Things aren't always quite what they seem to be.

This is unmistakably me.

Underneath the surface you'll see, every single facet of me, believe.

This is my identity.

Holding true to what I am,

If your not my biggest fan you'll find,

That what you get is what you see, so much for hypocrisy. Surprise!

It's not easy, to be who you're meant to be! It's not easy!

I'm not here to act like I know everything.

I just feel I need a little understanding.

Do you see me like He really sees me?