

Hush Hush

Erin McCarley

You're going fast but you're better half
Is underground and going down
They need a little pick up
From the webs and the barns
The pulse is slowin' down
Don't lose your love to the stars

The "hold it all in"
This pattern starts to win
A paper doll army
Full of colorful defenses

With sound and no longer tears apart
Where you can see it
For the sake of your lover's heart
Turn the light to the pieces

Hush, hush
Oh, you can hear it beating
Hush, hush
Oh, listen to the wreckage of the fall
Shadows hold the sound of what a heart is feeling
Hush, hush, oh

The fortune of a day is finding
Meaning in the making
But you give up to the chaos
With this systematic trade off

While the portrait of the other's Fading out of the glow
The changing of the dark
Covers all the suffering below

Hush, hush
Oh, you can hear it beating
Hush, hush
Oh, listen to the wreckage of the fall
Shadows hold the sound of what a heart is feeling
Hush, hush, oh

Deep, deep in the dark
Luminary heart
Tears it all apart

To be there
Holding your hand
Holding me into bed

Hush, hush
Oh, you can hear it beating
Hush, hush
Oh, listen to the wreckage of the fall
Shadows hold the sound of what a heart is feeling
Hush, hush, oh

Hush, hush

Oh, you can hear it beating
Hush, hush
Oh, listen to the wreckage of the fall
Shadows hold the sound of what a heart is feeling
Hush, hush, oh

Hush, hush, oh
Hush, hush
Oh, listen to the wreckage of the fall