Friends and Alibis

Escape the Fate

Oh, I hate to be the one to bear the bad news Yes, it is true I finally fell in love I fell so hard that I'm killing myself Yes, I need help Out of this grave that I've dug

And all the friends that I have gone through And how much I deserve the pain It's a shame

So hold your head Hold it up high Here's to the friends that were alibis Keep this close by your side When I come home we will have our night

Oh, they always told me I was gorgeous in a way And that fateful day
I found who I was
So fill this hole with my prescriptions
I just keep feeding my addictions

And all the friends that I have gone through And how much I deserve the pain It's a shame

So hold your head Hold it up high Here's to the friends that were alibis Keep this close by your side When I come home we will have our night We will have our night

You were the ones that stood by my side, whoa And I was the one that fought all of your fights

(Hold your head, hold it up high) Whoa (Keep this close by your side) Whoa

So hold your head Hold it high Here's to the friends that were alibis Keep this close by your side When I come home we will have our night

Hold your head Hold it up high Here's to the friends that were alibis Keep this close by your side When I come home we will have our night

Hold your head Hold it up high Here's to the friends that were alibis Keep this close by your side When I come home we will have our night
