

I walk in different stages,different ages through a timeless place inside a world of constant changes just a glimpse of open spaces forgotten traces we used to paint so many faces for everything you've ever said and done you always used to be the one that spoke out all those phrases now I'm grounded.....

grounded like the man that used to walk on empty highways different walkways looking for the master grounded like the man with no keys to open doors,a racing horse ,while the whole world still goes faster grounded like a god that ruled the world with just a sword and now is locked in halls of alabaster

now I'm grounded

I used to sing I used to laugh to heaven above and used to take a look into your private mindscape cause nothing comes from nothing that is something I've never believed just like your fate everything you've ever said and done you've always known you'll be the one that could turn my thoughts into shape
Now I'm grounded