Memories Turn To Dust

Esmée Denters

I can feel your arms around me Have you forgotten who I am 'Cause your reflection still surrounds me All the moments that we shared

Sometimes I just sit and wonder Can't believe we let it come this far Reminiscing 'bout what could have been But you're already gone

I can still see your face I can hear the way you tell me not to rush Seems like yesterday Now it's so hard to trust When memories turn to dust

I can't get rid of this strange feeling Feels like your right here by my side My heart is broken, never healing I could just throw away our time

We we're once so close That I just can't let go Always together Now I'm standing here alone

I can still see your face I can hear the way you tell me not to rush Seems like yesterday Now it's so hard to trust When memories turn to dust

I can still see your face I can hear the way you tell me not to rush Seems like yesterday Now it's so hard to trust When memories turn to dust

I can still see your face I can hear the way you tell me not to rush And it seems like yesterday, baby Now it's so hard to trust When memories turn to dust