

The Coming of the Tempest

Eternal Legacy

This land we walk upon has become desecrated
A darkened sky roars... within the night
Coveted by boundless fate

Great and evil winds of tragedy
Annihilation of the shores

They run... for their lives, to flee from the deadly storm
I watch... with laughter, as I see their bodies melt away

At the crack of dawn I awake to feel
The calm breeze pass through my skin

Lunacy grips me...
Sorrow fulfills me...
I cannot speak to myself
My eyes get dim as I'm pulled right in...
This last breath is much too hard for me to take...

Standing by the sea gazing into the past
We hope it's the last
Time is our lifeblood and some will die young
Mother Nature eats us alive

Great and evil winds of tragedy
Annihilation of the shores

They run... for their lives, to flee from the deadly storm
I watch... with laughter, as I see their bodies melt away

The earth is shaking violently
Clouds are falling from the sky
Lightning strikes a helpless soul...
And I celebrate their pain