

With the Sun

Eucharist

World in flames, set ablaze by my own hands.
With the sun, our burdens begone. Body and soul divorce, as fire and mind unite.
With my tears your grief will drown, in thoughts of beauty bathed.
In nakedness I bid farewell, and the blindness be gone...

Body and soul divorce, as fire
and mind unite.