

If nature sold herself on layaway with a little down I would be the first in line to buy myself a sound a waterfall a tidal wave or a beating of the drums a heavy wind a thunder or a falling of the leaves and I would proclaim I'm the new proprietor of a sound in a press conference held downtown
when the people would look at me in this state I would simply tell them this at least you'll have someone to blame for ruining your weekend I would play mother nature unlease my sound at will no more sitting and waiting on this quite window sill if I feel like love I will shake the trees if I'm consumed in loneliness then I will drop the leaves
and I would proclaim
I'm the new proprietor of a sound
in a press conference held
downtown
when the people would look at me
in this state I would simply say outright
at least you have someone to blame for scaring the children in the night what if I call for a waterfall some light rain and some other owner calls for a massive hurricaine we'd have to be responsible users and respect the rules of God I'll just take a load off and have to buy them all
and I would proclaim
I'm the new proprietor of a sound
in a press conference held
downtown
when the people would look at me
in this state I would simply say
at least you have someone
to blame for a near perfect day