There You Are Again

Evan and Jaron

I know you know what I'm about to say But let me tell it to you anyway Although I never mean to let you down You keep your head up and you stand your ground Don't think I don't see all the things that you do You're the reason we've made it through There you are On the phone again Reminding me why we're still friends There's a road we're on that never ends Cause there you are again I know that sometimes I don't think to call But don't start thinking I don't care at all I'm always on my way to somewhere else Searching high and low to find myself Stuck on that highway Between here and there I could be anywhere You're like the eye of a hurricane You are a constant in a world of change You are the calm in the storm When life gets strange