

Each and Every One

Everything But the Girl

Your words stung me to the heart I hadn't even noticed how far we had drifted apart can I still count you as a friend or have I done too much now to ever make amends cause I once needed just an open mind well that's no reason why I now should leave you behind

A word from out of the blue reminds me how much I once needed you oh but that's all in the past now so much that I can scarcely remember how I once needed just a hand to hold cause now the few times we meet all I sense is a love grown cold you can't hold on to everything and I've forgotten what we talked about a long time since can't recall days with regret tomorrow remember today and all the rest forget cause time's gone by and all the things we did are now so much water under another bridge